

WITHOUT A FLAW.

Concluded From First Page.

lated for chief justice Stephen De Wolfe, of Butte, whom he eulogized as a judge of ripe experience on the bench, a scholar and a man of unsullied integrity. He was no yearling in the judicial race, but true and tried. His election to the chief justiceship would be a guarantee of an honest administration. There were a number of seconds, when the nomination was made by acclamation. Judge De Wolfe was called to the platform and made his acknowledgment as follows:

"Mr. President and Delegates of the Democratic Convention: I am the person who has been really placed in nomination here for the office of chief justice of Montana, a mistake has been made in the use of the letter 'A' in my name. The president of the United States made the same mistake in sending my name to the senate when he nominated me, and it is no wonder that the good people of Montana follow in the footsteps of a great and democratic president. [Applause.] In that respect, gentlemen, your action must be corrected. Gentlemen, I have not got up here to make a speech. I rise to express my thanks and gratitude for the honor you have conferred upon me. I do so, I assure you, with the full fact that the office of chief justice of the state is one of the highest dignity, but one that calls for the exercise of commanding talents; and I only regret, gentlemen, of the convention, that I do not bring to such an office the talents which should adorn it. I can only say this, that whatever of intellect with which I have been endowed, God and country have placed in my hands, shall be devoted, if I should be so fortunate as to be elected, to the discharge of the duties which rest upon me. [Applause.] Two years ago, gentlemen, without any solicitation on my part, the members of the bar of Silver Bow county, who I know best among the lawyers of this territory, recommended me to accept the position of the president of the United States, and I was accordingly appointed to the office. Since that time, the duties which will devolve upon me if I am elected to this position. Heretofore under the territorial organization, the business of the supreme court, as well as the business of the legislative department of the territory, has been largely in the hands of the same men. Now a more important duty rests upon that tribunal. We are now merging into statehood. A new constitution has been formed and is now to be explained and the business of the supreme court will extend not only to explaining that instrument, but in reconciling the laws which to-day is found upon the statute books, as well as the legislation heretofore adopted with that instrument; and certainly no position that any lawyer or judge could occupy is one of more importance or gravity than that which will devolve upon the new judicial department of this state. (Gentlemen permit me again to express my gratification and thanks to you for the endorsement which you have just given me. Next to the consciousness of having discharged one's duty to the best of one's capacity, is the gratification to know that the manner in which this duty has been performed has met the approval and approbation of his fellow-citizens." [Applause.]

Francis K. Armstrong, of Bozeman, was proposed for associate justice for the five-year term, in a complimentary speech, and several delegations seconded the nomination, which was made by acclamation. Mr. Armstrong's acceptance was couched in modest but forcible language. He promised that, if elected, he would do all in his power to give the state an honest and intelligent interpretation of the law.

Sam Word arose to put in nomination for associate justice, for the seven-year term, a young man who had come to Montana at a comparatively recent date. He knew him for a democrat. He had been put forward by the democrats of his county to lead a forlorn hope and had led it so well that the republicans have been routed. This young man he had watched in the last territorial legislature, where he had shown a fidelity to the interests of Montana and the democracy that commended him to all. He had, as a member of the constitutional convention shown a keen legal knowledge, and in that body had been a most useful member. He nominated Walter M. Bickford of Missoula, Mr. Reeves, Middleton, Pemberton and others seconded this nomination. Mr. Parker, of Jefferson, nominated Harry M. Conly of Helena, than whom no more honest man or true democrat existed. The nomination was seconded by Mr. Shober, who spoke of the honor, integrity and worth of Mr. Conly, whom he had known for many years, and who had never failed in the performance of his duties. He had been tried in many places of trust and never betrayed one. The endorsing of the nomination of Mr. Bickford by Mr. Shober, in accepting said the honor was one he had not looked for, but the compliment was not one he could decline when his party asked him to accept. He was impressed with the weight of responsibility that would rest upon him should the people see fit to impose upon him this great trust. His desire was to serve his party and state so that neither would have cause to regret the confidence reposed in him. When the gentleman who had nominated him said he desired him as a democrat he was gratified to be paid him.

The chairman, W. A. Clark, left his place on the platform to put in nomination for attorney-general Col. W. Y. Pemberton, whose ability as a lawyer and honesty as a man he pointed in glowing and truthful colors. "Old Pem," said Mr. Clark, had been always ready to respond when his party called upon him, no matter what the emergency might be, and he recollected that in the constitutional convention of 1884 Col. Pemberton, who was a member of that body, arose when the question of free passes on railroads and steamboats was under consideration, and overturned a load of hay upon another member of the convention who is now the representative nominee for governor. The democracy of Col. Pemberton—"Old Pem"—was of so orthodox an order that the speaker felt justified in subscribing to it as did the lazy boy to the Lord's prayer, which he pinned to the head of his bed, and pointing to it as he climbed into bed at the day's close, said: "Them's my sentiments."

Judge Stephens seconded the nomination, and in the midst of jovial tumult in which the chairman of half a dozen delegations arose to second the nomination of the colonel, a motion which was carried with a shout that showed the hearty good will every one in the hall entertains toward the "Flying Artilleryman." The eyes that greeted the putting of the motion were mingled with shouts for Pemberton, "Old Pem," "Speech," etc., in response to which the veteran campaigner advanced to the platform, and when the applause had subsided, said:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: I can in no language which I could find partially express to you the gratitude I feel for the honor which you have conferred upon me, and I do not know how I can thank my old democratic friends for the kindly remarks and expressions which they have used in reference to my nomination. It is true, my fellow citizens, that I have always, at all times, at all places, and under all circumstances been a democrat. [Cheers.] I have never flinched or faltered, so help me God. I do not desire now, gentlemen, to take up your time in making a speech; there is other work for this convention to do. I may say this, gentlemen, that it is the duty of the democrats to go to work and organize. Gentlemen, organization and work is the thing which makes votes. Without labor and harmonious action we may be left. We cannot elect on enthusiasm. That is a good thing, but we want hard work in this campaign. Appearances indicate that there is now in the republican camp, but do not be deceived, as they may be 'playing possum.' Gentlemen, we are going to win this election by a ticket and formulating principles upon which we expect to inaugurate a government for the future office of Montana—it must be democratic. [Cheers.] The sun-kissed valleys and enchanted mountains were dedicated to democracy and to democracy. [Cheers.] Go to work, gentlemen, from this hour and determine that your battle shall never be fought on the mountains. [Applause.] Why, gentlemen, a nobler cause never engaged the energies or sympathies of man than the cause of democracy. It is the cause of humanity; it is the cause of human liberty; it is the breath of life, moving out upon the waters of the world, bearing peace and happiness, prosperity and liberty and hope to all his people everywhere. [Cheers.] Gentlemen, I am out from this convention, determined that when the sun goes down on the first day of October, the old flag that we have carried so long and so often in victory and defeat shall float above the broken ramparts of republicanism in Montana. [Great applause.]

For clerk of the supreme court Mr. Schmaltzhausen, of Madison, nominated George F. Cope, of Virginia City, one of the pioneer journalists of Montana, and who is widely known and esteemed. Mr. Ramsell thought that Missoula county had a democrat who could distance W. J. Kennedy, the republican nominee, for this office in the person of J. G. Dooley. Both suggestions received a number of seconds, but finally the name of Mr. Dooley was withdrawn and Mr. Cope was nominated by acclamation. He was called upon for a speech, but pleaded that he was scared, although he was not half as badly scared as Tommy Carter and his gang would be when they learned of the nominations that had preceded his own in this convention. He had been born in democracy, nurtured in democracy and would die a democrat. He would do all in his power to secure the election of the whole democratic ticket.

The name of Joseph A. Browne, of Beaverhead, was suggested for secretary of the state, following which Judge Reeves, of Missoula, proposed James Sullivan, of the present territorial auditor, for the place in a few eulogistic remarks. Mr. Sullivan arose and declined to be a candidate, saying he had come to the convention determined to do what he could for the success of the party without any expectations or desire for reward. Lewis and Clarke had already two names at the head of the ticket, while there were several counties not represented at all. Geographical considerations forbade his acceptance; besides the democratic party was the party of the workingman, and he understood a representative of the men who toil with their hands was to be named for one of the places to be filled. He, too, was a workman, and had toiled with his hands as long and as hard as any, but he wished to see a man who represented the greatest of Montana's interests nominated on this ticket. The nomination of Mr. Browne was made by acclamation.

Dr. Crutcher spoke for a county which had as yet received nothing at the hands of the convention, and said it possessed in the person of Jere Collins a man who had labored ardently for the good of the party and who was esteemed wherever he was known as a man of integrity and a model of probity. He nominated Mr. Collins for state treasurer.

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Todd seconded the nomination, which was made unanimous with a hearty good will. LAMCASTER, Pa., Aug. 27.—Charles D. Chambers, just released from the Eastern Penitentiary, came to this city last evening and when the Pacific express on the Pennsylvania railroad pulled out of the station at 1:25 this morning he boarded a Pullman car and endeavored to rob the passengers. Charles Murk, the porter, of Jersey City, struggled with him and was shot twice. Chambers was then overpowered by the train men. Murk recovered. Chambers says he was stealing a ride and the porter began firing at him. He grasped the pistol and it went off. The porter says Chambers was in a birth, and when discovered drew a revolver and commenced firing.

Those Bids for the Cruisers. WASHINGTON, August 27.—Acting Secretary Walker says there will be no formal rejection of the bids for building five new cruisers. The facts speak for themselves, and the advertisements state plainly the limit of cost of the ships. Still the bidders may be privately advised of the state of affairs as a matter of courtesy.

Simpson, the contractor for building new government dry docks at Norfolk and New York, has notified the navy department that the Norfolk dock will be in readiness to receive vessels September 10th. Work upon the New York dock is also progressing rapidly and it is expected it will be completed November 1, half a month in advance of contract time.

Death of Viola Hoyt. The sad intelligence has reached Helena that Miss Viola V. Hoyt died last Sunday at Seattle. Miss Hoyt formerly lived in Helena, where she was widely known for her charming grace of manner and person. She had a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely mourn her untimely death. She was a sister of Mrs. William Math, of this city.

At the Opera House. Another fine audience witnessed "The Paymaster" last night. It has caught on in Helena and will do a good business during the stay of the company.

The Earth Shock. DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 27.—A special from Washington, N. C., reports shocks of earthquake Saturday morning.

tana on the democratic national committee.

The committee sent to invite Mr. Daly before the convention, reported that Mr. Daly was busy at the smelter directing measures of protection against fire which menaced the works from the woods, and could not leave at that time.

The central committee was authorized to fill any vacancies on the state ticket that might occur through death or declination.

On a call of the counties the following were elected members of the state central committee: Beaverhead, Con. Bray, Dillon, Cascade, Paris, Gibson, Great Falls, Choteau, C. E. Conrad, Fort Benton, Custer, L. C. Dear, Miles City, Dawson, Geo. R. Tingle, Glendive; Deer Lodge, Sylvan Hughes, Anaconda; Fergus, Granville, Stuart, Fort Maginnis; Gallatin, Walter Cooper, Bozeman; Jefferson, John Schreiner, Wicker; Lewis and Clarke, A. C. Logan, Helena; Madison, H. Schmaltzhausen, Virginia City; Meagher, Henry C. Whaley, Townsend; Missoula, John R. Higgins, Missoula; Park, J. H. Savage, Livingston; Silver Bow, G. W. Stapleton, Butte; Yellowstone, L. B. Willard, Billings.

The chair was instructed to appoint as soon as convenient a committee of four from each county in Montana to draw up an address to the voters upon the issues of the campaign. The following was adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That this convention, while congratulating the democracy of Montana upon its victory in the recent election, is mindful of the loyal and patriotic service rendered to the party by the present chairman of the democratic central committee, Honorable A. J. Davidson, who we appreciate his efforts and have profited by his wisdom, and that this convention expresses the hope that his future may be crowned with continued success and prosperity.

Sam Word spoke for a few minutes upon the injustice of the registration law passed by the last territorial legislature and stated in some instances voters were required to go fifty and even seventy miles to register. This law should put the democrats upon their metal and the effort should be to secure a full registration in order that the party responsible for this iniquitous law should be turned out of power in Montana. The convention then adjourned, cheering for the nominees and the platform.

The state central committee met at 8 o'clock this evening in the parlors of the Montana. Marcus Daly formally accepted the chairmanship and said that he would go into the fight heart and soul. After the adjournment he entertained the committee with a lunch in the dining room of the hotel. Hauser, Daly, Broadwater and Clark were closeted together for a long time tonight.

Dunlap & Youman's hats opening at Babcock's.

JUMPED THE RAPIDS SAFELY.

The Fool Killer Not on Duty Sunday at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Carlisle D. Graham made a successful trip through the whirlpool rapids yesterday afternoon in a barrel-shaped boat. At first the boat traveled easy, but soon was in the grasp of a more rapid current that hastened its journey. It rode beautifully in the trip through the rapids, and frequently disappeared from sight, and when it struck the big wave in front of Buttery's elevator it was out of sight so long that many believed it to be lost. The course it took was down the center of the river. At 4:22 o'clock it entered the whirlpool and thousands of people who had gathered there to witness his friends recover the barrel were doomed to be disappointed, for instead of being caught in the main current and carried across, as is usually the case, it hugged the American side and was carried into the quiet water in front of the outlet and worried slowly over nearly to the Canadian side. For a minute it was a question whether it was to go around the "wheel" or down the river, but the outward current was too strong and at 4:54 p. m. Graham passed out of the pool and down the trough in the fearful water opposite Foster's state, which is the spot most feared by all the rapid navigators. All these dangers Graham passed in safety, and at 5:35 p. m. Seymour Fleming and John Lonsdale, of Lewiston, picked him up near the old Lewiston bridge.

Before going to the Fair stop at the Louvre and get a roast beef lunch.

HIS ATTEMPT FAILED. A Man Just Out of the Penitentiary Tries to Rob a Train.

LAMCASTER, Pa., Aug. 27.—Charles D. Chambers, just released from the Eastern Penitentiary, came to this city last evening and when the Pacific express on the Pennsylvania railroad pulled out of the station at 1:25 this morning he boarded a Pullman car and endeavored to rob the passengers. Charles Murk, the porter, of Jersey City, struggled with him and was shot twice. Chambers was then overpowered by the train men. Murk recovered. Chambers says he was stealing a ride and the porter began firing at him. He grasped the pistol and it went off. The porter says Chambers was in a birth, and when discovered drew a revolver and commenced firing.

Those Bids for the Cruisers. WASHINGTON, August 27.—Acting Secretary Walker says there will be no formal rejection of the bids for building five new cruisers. The facts speak for themselves, and the advertisements state plainly the limit of cost of the ships. Still the bidders may be privately advised of the state of affairs as a matter of courtesy.

Simpson, the contractor for building new government dry docks at Norfolk and New York, has notified the navy department that the Norfolk dock will be in readiness to receive vessels September 10th. Work upon the New York dock is also progressing rapidly and it is expected it will be completed November 1, half a month in advance of contract time.

Death of Viola Hoyt. The sad intelligence has reached Helena that Miss Viola V. Hoyt died last Sunday at Seattle. Miss Hoyt formerly lived in Helena, where she was widely known for her charming grace of manner and person. She had a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely mourn her untimely death. She was a sister of Mrs. William Math, of this city.

At the Opera House. Another fine audience witnessed "The Paymaster" last night. It has caught on in Helena and will do a good business during the stay of the company.

The Earth Shock. DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 27.—A special from Washington, N. C., reports shocks of earthquake Saturday morning.

The Twentieth Exhibition of the M. A. M. & M. A.

Is a gratifying Success. Floral Hall Never Looked Prettier. The Displays are Very Attractive.

Is a Novel and Entertaining Exhibition. It gives assurance of being the most Popular Exhibition in Animals ever held in the territory. Do not fail to see the Bench Show. THERE ARE DOGS, AND DOGS AND DOGS.

THIRD DAY, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 28, 1889.

Official Racing Programme:

At 1:30 p. m. will be called the Special Running Race, No. 106, for named horses. Purse—$200, Six Furlongs:

1. Kittie Van, b. f., 3, by Vanderbilt, dam April Fool, 100 lbs, J. R. Ross.
2. Roly Boly, b. m., 4, by Bank Roll, dam unknown, 107 lbs, A. Phelps.
3. Ida Glenn, ch. m., aged, by Glen Elm, dam Queen, 105 lbs, H. Woodbridge.
4. Asa, ch. m., 3, by Longfield, dam Assaria, 105 lbs, Thos. Hazlett.
5. Jack Pot, br. g., 3, by Joe Hooker, dam by Thad Stevens, 100 lbs, A. Davis.

RACE NO. 90, PIONEER STAKES, FOR 2-YEAR-OLDS, $500 ADDED, SIX FURLONGS

1. Frank, b. g., by Napa, dam unknown, Alex Proffit.
2. Carrie Lee, ch. f., by Regent, dam Nannie Holton, H. R. Baker.
3. Emma Nevada, b. f., by John A. dam May D, Thos. Hazlett.
4. Raindrop, b. f., by Ophir, dam Nyella, R. E. Bybee.

RACE NO. 91, RUNNING, SELLING RACE, PURSE—$500, ONE MILE:

1. Little Phil, ch. c., 3, by Leinster, dam Lily H, valuation $900, 90 lbs, Thos. Bally.
2. Fandango, ch. c., 3, by Billy Lee, dam unknown, valuation $900, 90 lbs, L. J. Gilliland.

3. Oregon Rose, ch. f., 3, by Tip Top, dam Grape Shot, valuation $800, 85 lbs, Matlock Bros.
4. Tom Daly, ch. g., aged, by Patsy Duffey, dam Sun Shine, valuation $1000, 105 lbs, Umatilla Stables.

5. J. M. R., ch. h., 4, by imp. Kelpie, dam by Joe Daniels, valuation $1000, 105 lbs, R. W. Doriaca.
6. Black Pilot, blk. g., aged, by Echo, dam Madge Duke, valuation $1000, 105 lbs, Hazlett & Davis.

7. Jack Brady, b. h., aged, by Wildidle, dam Sourgrass, valuation $1500, 110 lbs, Sam Cooper.

RACE NO. 101, TROTTING, PURSE—$1000, 2:24 CLASS:

1. Col. Bradshaw, b. g., by Messenger Chief, dam Jewell, by Gils Vermont, J. H. Butler.
2. Contractor, b. g., by Sultan, dam Madame Harding, by Overland, H. Kirkendall.
3. Wanita, rn. m., by Aberdeen, dam Wyoming Belle, by Lowe's Pilot, A. C. Beckwith.

4. Palatina, spotted m., by Milton Medium, dam Snowflake, by Snowstorm, Alex Lewis.
5. Fantasie, b. m., by Ranchero, dam Lady Kate, by Toronto Chief, C. G. Bradshaw.

Come Early! Races commence at 1:30. Take the early train via the Montana Central.

FRANCIS POPE, Secretary. A. J. DAVIDSON, President.

Revolution in Business Principles At

THE BEE HIVE.

Having decided to make an entire change in our present manner of doing business, as well as to do business on a different plan from any other house in Montana, we will, from this date on, sell any and all goods in our store at the very small profit of

ONLY TEN PER CENT.

Our object in doing this is to increase our business at least tenfold, thereby making our plan feasible and profitable, and at the same time give the purchasing public BETTER GOODS for their money than has ever before been offered in Montana.

We shall carry this plan out to the letter, and our aim is to have the reputation that THE BEE HIVE IS THE CHEAPEST HOUSE IN THE STATE OF MONTANA, and we feel assured that our plan will be successful. This is no buncombe or advertising dodge, but every word in the above tells solid facts, and we will guarantee every word we say. Call and be convinced for yourself.

KOHLBERG & CO.

NO. 5, NORTH MAIN STREET.

VISITORS TO THE FAIR

Should Do Their Shopping With

RALEIGH & CLARKE

The Dry Goods Store OF HELENA.

1889 AUTUMN 1889

New Goods arriving Daily.

NEW DRESS SILKS, NEW DRESS PATTERNS, NEW FLANNEL SUITINGS, Fall Shades and Colorings, New Ribbons and Laces, Extremely Low Prices, Samples on Application

RALEIGH & CLARKE

K. P. GERRY. F. K. WARD.

HELENA Concrete Co.

CONCRETE SIDEWALKS, Street Pavements.

Basement Floors, DRIVEWAYS,

And everything in the Concrete line by the Hot or Cold Process.

All work guaranteed, Residence, 315 Montana avenue, P. O. Box 384, HELENA, MONT.

Simpson, the contractor for building new government dry docks at Norfolk and New York, has notified the navy department that the Norfolk dock will be in readiness to receive vessels September 10th. Work upon the New York dock is also progressing rapidly and it is expected it will be completed November 1, half a month in advance of contract time.